This allowed parents for not normally able to come in the evening to still have their child show their work. Other school adults were available in each classroom so every child was able to speak about his or her work. • Dr. Oliver Phipps, principal of Shadowlawn Elementary, presented to our 4th and 5th grade classes. The subject was based around Black History Month and spreading kindness and acceptance, while also stressing the importance of reading. Using his dynamic presentation style, humor, and powerful stories, he had full engagement from all of the 260 (or so) students. We thank him for taking time away from his school to spread his message to our Eagles.
